A another weak trading update

The facts: This morning Bekaert released its 3Q12 trading update. Consolidated sales are up 6% to EUR 865m, roughly in line with our and consensus estimates of EUR 860m and EUR 869m, respectively. Combined sales (consolidated sales + sales of the associates) are down 3% to EUR 1,106m, also roughly in line.

The net financial debt remains under control at EUR 790m at the end of September, thanks to a good control of the NWC. This is the (only) good news of this reporting.

Less positive is the announcement of non-recurring expense for an amount of EUR 100m to be booked in 2H12. This amount can be split into bad debt provisions in sawing wire (SW) activity for about EUR 15m and in EUR 75m of impairment related to the remaining sawing wire activity. Note that this amount does not include the non-recurring charges related to the EUR 100m savings program that started to be implemented and will cost around EUR 50m (management guidance) to be split between 2H12 and 1H13.

For 4Q12, Bekaert expects sustained price pressure in Asia and a continued unfavorable product mix in EMEA. In Latin America, Bekaert anticipates volume growth in line with the GDP trend, but carefully watches the situation in Venezuela, given the currency-related uncertainties and the fact that a steady supply of raw materials cannot always be ensured.

The decision to impair the remaining SW machines is, in our view, an indication that Bekaert does not see the possibility to transfer these machines towards the tire activity, given the likely trend of the tire cord demand in China and India.

Conclusion & Action: Weak 3Q12 trading update and clear indications that Bekaert is still facing solid headwind.

We still do not see rapid improvement of the economic situation in Bekaert's main markets and do not anticipate a rapid improvement of margins. We still believe it is too early to turn positive on this share. Hence our HOLD rating
